

FAIRTRADE FIGHTS POVERTY AND IMPROVES LIVES THROUGH TRADE

This is how ...

Fairtrade guarantees farmers and producers in marginalised societies in the developing world a fair and stable price for their produce.

Fairtrade provides an additional premium, paid to producer organisations, to enable whole community projects such as training, school-building, sanitation and healthcare programmes.

Fairtrade encourages environmental awareness and sustainable methods of production.

Fairtrade requires producer organisations to offer safe working conditions and prohibits exploitative child labour.

Fairtrade enables producers in marginalised societies to tackle trade injustice caused by unfair tariffs and subsidies, so that they can reach international markets.

Fairtrade provides disadvantaged producers with a regular income so that they can send their children to school, giving the next generation a chance to avoid poverty.

The FAIRTRADE Mark is a registered certification label for products sourced from producers in developing countries. Products described as Fairtrade (one word) carry the FAIRTRADE Mark and meet international Fairtrade standards set by Fairtrade International.

Products described as fair trade or fairly traded (two words) do not carry the FAIRTRADE mark but are traded in line with the work of the wider movement of organisations such as the World FairTrade Organisation (WFTO) and the British Association for Fair Trade Shops (BAFTS).
